Note. Data include persons with a diagnosis of HIV infection regardless of AIDS status at diagnosis (i.e., includes persons with a diagnosis of HIV infection only, a diagnosis of HIV infection and a later diagnosis of AIDS, or concurrent diagnoses of HIV infection and AIDS).

^a Includes persons reported to CDC through June 2005 whose vital status was “alive” as of December 2004. Excludes persons whose vital status was unknown. Data presented for areas with confidential name-based HIV infection reporting as of December 2004.

^b These numbers do not represent reported case counts. Rather, these numbers are point estimates of persons living with HIV/AIDS, which result from adjustments of reported case counts. The reported case counts are adjusted for reporting delays. Includes cases diagnosed and deaths that occurred through December 2004 and that were reported through June 2005.

^c Connecticut has confidential name-based HIV infection reporting for pediatric cases only.

^d Florida (since July 1997) has had confidential name-based HIV infection reporting for new diagnoses only.

^e Pennsylvania (October 2002) implemented confidential name-based infection reporting in only the areas outside the city of Philadelphia.

^f Texas (February 1994 through December 1998) reported pediatric HIV infection cases only.

^g Because column totals were calculated independently of values for the subpopulations, the values in each column may not sum to the column total.
